Bio (full, 280 words):

Aleyna Brown is a contemporary American composer, multi-instrumentalist, and audio engineer with active networks in Tallahassee, FL and Denton, TX. Aleyna is an advocate of diversity in concert programming as well as the exploration and celebration of feminism in music and art.

As an actively commissioned composer and collaborator, she has scored short films and composed concert works for orchestra, mixed chamber ensembles, solo instruments, multimedia and live electronics, with premieres across the U.S. Much of her music serves to both celebrate and recontextualize ideas of beauty and femininity.

As a flutist, she has performed as a concerto soloist, contemporary music flutist, recording artist, pit orchestra member for theater, opera, and ballet, and orchestral flutist in the U.S. and Italy. She currently performs with the NOVA new music ensemble at the University of North Texas where she attends as a double-masters candidate studying Flute Performance and Composition with specializations in Computer Music and Contemporary Music.

As an audio engineer and producer, Aleyna has worked with award-winning clients across a variety of genres in professional recording studios and a local nonprofit record label. She is AVID Pro Tools certified. With this training she composed, arranged, recorded, mixed, and mastered her own debut album "EXHALE," released internationally in 2019. Aleyna is a registered artist and composer of ASCAP, with which she also maintains publishing membership as the creator and owner of her independent publishing company, Red Pin Publishing.

As an educator, Aleyna has taught collegiate-level Digital Audio Production courses at the UNT College of Music, as well as assists the Music Business & Entrepreneurship program. She also teaches private lessons for woodwind performance, DAW training, and music industry consulting.

Bio (short, 170 words):

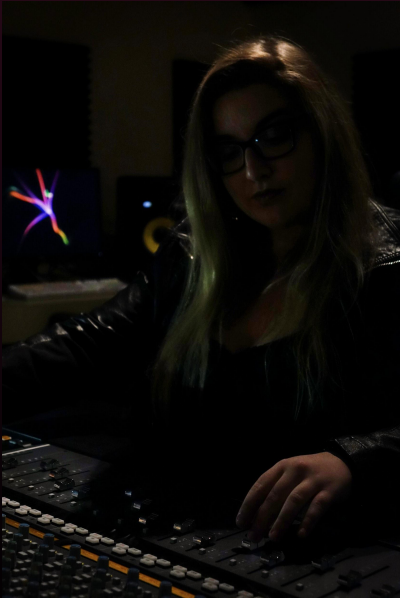

Aleyna Brown is a contemporary American composer, multi-instrumentalist, and audio engineer with active networks in Tallahassee, FL and Denton, TX. Aleyna is an advocate of diversity in concert programming as well as the exploration and celebration of feminism in music and art.

As a composer, Aleyna has scored short films and composed concert works for chamber ensembles, solo instruments, fixed media, and live electronics. Much of her music serves to both celebrate and recontextualize ideas of beauty and femininity. Aleyna is also an active contemporary music flutist specializing in electroacoustic performance. She performs with the NOVA new music ensemble at the University of North Texas where she currently attends as a dual-masters student studying Flute Performance and Composition. She also works as a recording, mixing, and mastering studio engineer and as the assistant for the Music Business & Entrepreneurship program at the UNT College of Music. Aleyna earned her three bachelors degrees from the Florida State University College of Music in 2018.
